“We put our entire management team through the Integrated Leadership Systems Leadership Institute. It was a game changer for us. Not only did each executive get critical insights as to how they could lead more effectively, but with the benefits of the highly skilled ILS coaches, they were able to make the changes they desired. In addition, this experience increased the sense of trust and teamwork for our whole team. I would highly recommend that any company that wishes to help take its managers to the next level, put its executives through this leadership institute. It was a great investment for us.”

Roger Posacki, CEO, Elmers Products, Inc.
Steven Anderson is the president of Integrated Leadership Systems (ILS). I completed the Institute program in April 2014. Afterward, I was so moved, I requested to write a personal statement as a testament to the program. I wanted to do whatever I could to let others know the value in this system. It works! Here is my PERSONAL account of my experience with ILS and what it has done for me.

I sauntered into “Session one: Authentic Leadership and Introduction of 360” with facilitator, Steve Anderson, expecting to sit in an uncomfortable chair with my butt and back aching listening to some lectures about what it takes to be an effective leader. The 3rd bullet point in the initial comments was, “Seminar is interactive and flexible”. I thought to myself, “Sure it is”.

The room was set up in a square of tables/chairs. There were about fourteen individuals present. We went around the room stating our name, what we do for what company, how long we have worked for our present employer, and what was the most exciting thing that happened to us in the last year? As I listened to each person’s personal accounts, I started to think, “This could be very interesting”.

As we proceeded through our first session, I learned that we were going to have monthly coaching, be responsible for a project at the end of the program, have multiple “breakout” sessions throughout the course, perform different exercises, and be expected to participate frequently. This was NOT going to be a “lecture series” where we just sit and listen. As we wrapped up our first session, I had participated in an interactive experience in which my fellow attendees and myself presented the educational experience along with Steve Anderson.

As we progressed through the eight month course I learned much about myself. The objective of the Institute was NOT for them to tell me how to be a better leader, but to help me find out for myself what I need to do to be a better person. We were enlightened in the terms of emotional intelligence, building trust, authentic communication, and mentoring just to name a few. We had monthly breakout sessions in small groups to allow us to feel comfortable to explore the sensitive subjects we needed to obtain the understanding necessary so we could change.

I graduated from the Institute with a much better understanding of what it takes to be an effective leader and the confidence to do so. I would highly recommend this course to anyone who is in a position to become a better leader, but also who wants to be a better person. I am now the Chief of staff elect (to be chief of staff) for our local hospital and was voted the new Medical Director of our large Family Practice dept. I did not have these positions prior to the program. Thanks to everyone at ILS!

Your transformational journey through the ILS Leadership Institute begins with a comprehensive 360º assessment and continues with nine workshops that help you to understand who you are as a leader and where you have the opportunity to grow. Workshop leaders will introduce powerful concepts associated with successful leadership framed by the 360º assessment. See page 11 for 360º details. Each month we will explore these concepts and the ways in which you can apply them to your everyday life. Supplemental monthly coaching is included and will help you focus on the areas of growth you identify through the process. See page 10 for more information about executive coaching. Participants will be asked to complete an individual project by the end of the nine months, which will provide them with opportunities to utilize the new skills and ways of thinking explored throughout the Institute series. See page 8 for project details.

Workshop Content

Sessions are from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. each day with lunch from 12 noon to 12:30 p.m.

Session 1    Thursday, September 19, 2019
Topic:       Authentic Leadership and Introduction of 360° Assessment
Description: In this session, participants will gain an understanding of how to develop and refine their passion. They will learn how to turn this passion into a vision and how to identify and overcome the chief obstacle to their ultimate success: fear. The facilitator will help participants understand the thoughts and emotions that drive their behavior and the concept of authenticity and how it impacts their ability to lead. In addition, the facilitator will teach participants how to build their leadership style around passion, rather than fear, discuss the differences between leaders and managers, create draft mission, vision and values statements, and work with participants to develop a vision for their future development as a leader. Participants will also be introduced to the powerful Leadership Circle Profile 360° assessment tool and receive a personal feedback report in their individual coaching session. The 360° assessment tool will help them gain an understanding of their reactive behaviors that can be changed to in order to become a more effective leader. From the feedback, participants will create a master plan for their future development which utilizes the Authentic Leadership workshop and the insights from the 360°. We will also discuss the details of the project that participants will be completing throughout the remainder of the Institute. There will be time to brainstorm ideas and discuss expectations.

Individual Coaching - Intake Session

Session 2    Thursday, October 17, 2019
Topic:       Communicating Authentically and Courageously to Achieve Results
Description: This day will help participants improve their ability to communicate in key areas vital to their effectiveness. More specifically, this session will help them to listen and communicate more successfully, better mediate discussions between other employees, practice assertiveness, and handle difficult people in more productive ways. Participants will have the opportunity to role play to reinforce these concepts.

Individual Coaching - 360° Assessment Private De-Briefing

Session 3    Thursday, November 21, 2019
Topic:       Introduction of Project, Conquering Everyday Stress
Description: This session will involve a detailed discussion about stress management and how participants can learn to use stress to their advantage. In this portion of the workshop, they will learn to harness the energy provided by stressful situations and turn it into solutions that will lower their anxiety. During this session, participants will list the three most stressful situations they face. By the end of the session, they will design solutions to those situations that will lower their anxiety and make them more effective leaders. Through instruction and exercises, participants will come to understand the difference between stress and anxiety and learn the physiology of anxiety, how to control the thoughts that drive their anxiety, and how to develop an action plan to reduce anxiety in their life.

Individual Coaching - Gaining Insight
Session 4 Thursday, January 16, 2020
Topic: Developing Emotional Intelligence
Description: This session will cover the crucial role of self-awareness in developing successful relationships and help participants pinpoint behaviors that impact work performance by reviewing the four core abilities of emotional intelligence. Presenters will discuss how participants can improve their work by understanding how the brain processes emotion, how staying cool and building confidence can boost productivity, and how to develop their leadership skills by recognizing office behaviors to more productively manage relationships.

Individual Coaching - Gaining Insight

Session 5 Thursday, February 20, 2020
Topic: Building and Sustaining Trust
Description: This session will explore foundational aspects of trust such as integrity, courageous authenticity and vulnerability and how to cultivate these vital aspects in order to build stronger personal and professional relationships. Building and sustaining trust is an essential piece of effective leadership; however, without being aware of it, many leaders act in ways counterproductive to building trust. Others are aware of the need to improve trust in their relationships but are unsure how to do so. The goal of this session is to provide insight into the behaviors that positively and negatively affect trust and to provide an environment in which participants can openly explore ways they can improve their ability to build trusting relationships.

Individual Coaching - Gaining Insight

Session 6 Thursday, March 19, 2020
Topic: Manage to Lead
Description: Management is a skill that is different than leadership. Leaders do the right things. Managers do things right. This session will teach your leaders to manage more effectively. It is specifically designed for people in leadership positions who have not been trained in management. This workshop will lay a foundation for those leaders to help them gain a better understanding of how to run their organizations. Additionally, it will prove beneficial to managers who have received business training, but may wish to brush up on their knowledge and gain fresh perspective on how to manage their business more effectively.

Individual Coaching - Gaining Insight

Session 7 Thursday, April 16, 2020
Topic: Transforming Others: Mentoring and Coaching
Description: In this session participants will be introduced to the basics of mentoring and coaching, and then will spend most of the day applying what they have learned. As participants practice their new mentoring and coaching skills they will be given feedback by an ILS coach about how to motivate and communicate with peers and subordinates more productively. Participants will leave this workshop with powerful tools to mentor and coach others as well as hands-on experience for applying these skills.

Individual Coaching - Transformation
Session 8    Thursday, May 21, 2020

Topic: Building Exceptional Teams

Description: So often members of businesses spend so much time serving customers and solving problems, that they don’t take the time to do the necessary work to maintain and develop the bonds of their team. This workshop focuses on developing key areas that research shows to be critical for effective teams: (1) psychological safety, (2) impression management, (3) sense of interdependence and (4) accountability of all members. This fun, energizing, insightful workshop will help you recognize and talk through problems that may be holding you back and develop a plan to move forward into the future.

Individual Coaching - Perpetuation

Session 9    Thursday, June 18, 2020

Topic: Presentation of Individual Projects, Presentation of Personal MVV and Lunch Reception

Description: Participants will have an opportunity to present their individual project in front of the ILS consulting team and any guests they would like to invite (limit of three). Guests might include a spouse, supervisor, the beneficiaries of their project, and/or coworkers. The amount of time allotted for presentations will depend upon how many participants are members of the Institute each year. In addition, participants will reveal their personal mission, vision and values statements that they will be working on through this nine month process. Participants who missed less than three sessions will be presented with a certificate of completion from the ILS Leadership Institute. This workshop will be followed by a reception to say our final good byes.

Individual Coaching - Termination
Explanation of Individual Project

An important part of being a strong leader is demonstrating the ability to engage your workplace to move toward a common goal. During this nine-month program, participants will be asked to select a project with their supervisor that they will work on as an individual. We encourage participants to choose a project that benefits their company and will engage others in their workplace. For instance, they may choose to serve as their organization’s United Way chairperson, organize a blood drive at their office, serve as the head of an ad-hoc committee and form a team to address a workplace problem, create a safety program, or spearhead an effort to improve a company process/system. You will also focus on your personal and professional development as a result of your 360 Assessment and participation in the Leadership Institute.

After a project is chosen, participants will be asked to outline the challenge they addressed, the strategies they chose to overcome it, the action steps they took and a timeline they will use to keep the project moving forward to ensure they are finished by the Institute’s final session. They will be given more detailed instructions about this plan in the second session and will be provided with a template to use. The coach can help participants brainstorm ideas for implementing the project if they find they need help.

At the final session of the Leadership Institute, participants will be asked to give an oral presentation about their project and the accomplishments they made. We estimate each participant will have about 15-20 minutes for this presentation, including Q&A, but the time allotted will depend upon how many participants we have in the Institute. Participants are welcome to invite others, such as their supervisor, co-workers or spouse, to attend the final session.
Executive Coaching Description

Coaching as part of the Leadership Institute will entail participants meeting with their executive coach for eight individual sessions that will take place in between monthly sessions. Each participant and their coach will agree on homework assignments that pertain to that individual’s personal growth and topics covered in the previous Institute session.

Coaching generally proceeds through the following phases:

• Phase I – Intake: This phase lasts for one meeting and consists of gathering the following information:
  a. A list of the biggest challenges the person faces
  b. The participant’s history. This is an important tool to help participants understand what changes they must consider making in order to achieve their goals.
  c. Goals for coaching.

• Phase II – Gaining Insight: During this phase, the coach will work diligently to help participants understand how their reactive tendencies are actually creating the challenges they listed in Phase I. The insights gained in this phase create tremendous leverage to help participants change behaviors and acquire new behaviors necessary to achieve their goals.

• Phase III – Transformation: During this phase the ILS coaches will work with participants to help them achieve their goals. They will do this in two ways: By helping participants identify the beliefs that are holding them back and by partnering with them to develop homework assignments to destroy old reactive beliefs and transform them into new beliefs that create sustainable leadership for them and their organization. Coaches will help participants integrate their thoughts, emotions and behaviors so that they become a more authentic leader who never allows their environment to determine their results. As an authentic leader, participants become the architect of the successful future they deserve.

• Phase IV – Perpetuation: Participants will work to reinforce authentic habits. This phase insures that the changes they have worked so hard to achieve will last a lifetime. If participants miss only one or two Institute sessions, they will be offered the opportunity to continue executive coaching at a reduced rate. If they miss three or more sessions, they will still be able to take advantage of extended coaching, but without the discounted rate. If participants decide not to continue with executive coaching following the conclusion of the Leadership Institute, they will work on their own to solidify the gains they have made in Phase III.

“Leadership is not about who is following. It is about being completely and authentically yourself in service of your fellow man.”

360° Assessment Description

Each participant’s transformational journey is enhanced by the powerful insight provided by a 360° assessment. The Leadership Circle Profile™ (TLCP) is setting a new standard for leadership assessment and feedback. Here is why:

- Most surveys are a laundry list of behaviors. TLCP integrates well-researched leadership competencies into a unified framework.
- Most surveys merely report high and low scores. TLCP framework shows leaders how they are doing and spotlights the hidden motivators that drive successful and unsuccessful behaviors.
- Most surveys overwhelm leaders with a lot of un-integrated data. Using TLCP, leaders can quickly see the whole story and gain insights into their creative strengths, the competencies that need to be developed, and the deeper issues that need to be addressed to be more effective leaders.

Participants will receive a TLCP assessment binder filled with comprehensive information about how they can improve upon the scores they receive on their TLCP. Undertaking this process will help participants understand how they are currently reacting to situations and design a plan to help them become more influential leaders.
